Campus community invited to Lovette lecture Feb. 22

The Osher Life Long Learning Institute's Harlem Renaissance course will have Le Roy Lovette as its guest speaker from 9 to 11 a.m. on Friday, Feb. 22. The campus community is invited to join the OLLI students. The class will be held in Malibu Hall 120. Lovette contributed to the Harlem Renaissance and worked with Nobel Sissle, one of the composing icons of the 20s and 30s, and then later Lovette worked with Nat King Cole.

For more information contact Marty Kaplan, Director of OLLI at CSUCI, ext. 8583 or marty.kaplan@csuci.edu.

Save the following dates for Provost Candidate receptions

The campus community is invited to meet the Provost search candidates at the following receptions:

- Monday, Feb. 25
- Tuesday, Feb. 26
- Friday, Feb. 29
- Monday, March 3

Each reception will be held from 5 to 6:30 p.m. As soon as candidate arrangements are made, additional information about the candidates and the locations of the receptions will be sent out via campus global email.

'Now & Then' African American male panel Feb. 28

The "Now & Then" series will feature an African American male panel from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 28 in Malibu Hall 100. The event will include a reception. High school, community college and CSUCI students, faculty and staff will have the opportunity to ask questions and discuss with distinguished panelists topics and issues that have affected the African American community for generations.

For more information contact Jennifer Chapman, Coordinator of Student Leadership Programs, ext. 3243 or jennifer.chapman@cscui.edu.

Book release of work co-authored by Tollefson on March 13

The campus community is invited to attend an event celebrating the release of "Cultivating the Learner-Centered Classroom," a book written by two local educators. The event will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 13 in the University Prep School Library, 550 Temple Ave., Camarillo. The authors, Kaia Tollefson, Assistant Professor of Education at CSUCI and Monica Osborn, teacher at the University Prep School, both experts in how students and teachers learn best, will outline the themes and insights contained in their book and answer questions from attendees. The event is ideal for K-12 educators, pre-service teachers, parents, administrators, and students (bring your kids!) who are interested in promoting learning environments where teachers and students are both growing. Copies of the book will be available for purchase at the event and refreshments will be served.

For more information contact Eric Toshalis, Assistant Professor of Secondary Education, ext. 3304 or eric.toshalis@csuci.edu.

Nursing Program event to address Cultural Competence in Health Care Delivery March 28

The Nursing Pipeline Program will host Dr. Josepha Campinha-Bacote who will speak about Cultural Competence in Health Care Delivery from 3 to 4:30 p.m. on Friday, March 28. The event will focus on the issue of cultural competency and diversity as it relates to communication in health care education and health care services. It will be held in Malibu Hall 100 and there will be complimentary hors d'oeuvres and beverages. The event is open to the public and RSVP's are requested and must be made before Tuesday, March 25.

Campinha-Bacote is an internationally recognized expert in cultural competency in health care. She has worked with managed healthcare organizations, acute and long term medical centers, outpatient healthcare organizations, academic institutions, community outreach centers, faith-based organizations, and the federal government to enhance the level of cultural competence among their employees and healthcare professionals.

For more information or to RSVP contact Betty Ortiz, Nursing Pipeline Coordinator, ext. 8954 or betty.ortiz@csuci.edu.

Frisch, Kelly give talks at WSU

Scott Frisch, Professor of Political Science, and Sean Kelly, Associate Professor of Political Science, were invited by the Foley Institute at Washington State University to give both a public talk and presentation on their research to the Political Science Department at events held on Feb. 12 and 13. Christopher, Quintero selected for Leadership California program

Leadership California has selected Renny Christopher, Associate Vice President for Faculty Affairs, and Amanda Quintero, Interim Associate Vice President for Research and Sponsored Programs, as members of the Class of 2008 for its 2008 California Issues & Trends Program (CIT). This is a prestigious, yearlong program for 60 women leaders from across the state of California.

The California Issues & Trends Program provides focused development of women leaders, exposing them to critical public and private sector issues and enhancing their competitive knowledge on California from state, national and global perspectives. It connects women leaders from across the state with each other and with top decision-makers, thinkers and practitioners. It promotes creativity and innovation through the sharing of ideas and best practices. Graduates of the CIT are empowered to contribute more fully to California's vision of excellence and to the communities and companies in which they live and work.

Thanks to the generosity extended by faculty, staff, and students to the children of Casa Pacifica during the holiday season, donations for the children now will be accepted throughout the year. There is an ongoing need for these items (click to view list). A green bin is set up outside Aliso Hall room 102 for collecting items. Items will periodically be delivered to Casa Pacifica. To learn more about Casa Pacifica visit <http://www.casapacifica.org/>

For more information about the donation program contact Kimberly Gardner, Instructional Support Technician Biology Program, ext. 8502 or kimberly.gardner@csuci.edu.

Study Abroad info meetings scheduled

Faculty members are invited to inform their students about the study abroad information meetings that are now being held at 12 p.m. on both Tuesdays and Wednesdays at the Center for International Affairs, Sage Hall 2119.

For more information contact the Center for International Affairs, ext. 3107 or international@csuci.edu.

OLLI adds new class to mini-class series in Thousand Oaks

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at CSUCI is offering its “Taste of OLLI” mini-course series in Thousand Oaks this winter. The original eight courses that were offered filled immediately. A new class has been added to meet demand, “Early Rock and Roll Pioneers.”

This class will discuss important social and musical elements that led to the rise of rock and roll in the 1950s and will survey early rhythm and blues artists and pioneering early rock and roll legends including Little Richard, Chuck Berry, Jerry Lee Lewis and Elvis Presley. It will be taught by Dr. Paul R. Murphy, a CSUCI faculty member. Murphy has been a professional musician in Los Angeles for the last 16 years performing in film, television, musical theatre, jazz concerts and club dates.

The lecture will be held from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Saturday, March 8 at the CSUCI Extended Education Facility, 501 Marin St. (near the Oaks Mall). Advance enrollment is recommended. Enrollment fee is $10. Call ext. 2748 to enroll.

For more information contact Marty Kaplan, Director of OLLI at CSUCI, ext. 8583 or marty.kaplan@csuci.edu.

Alumni visit campus

More than 40 alumni, faculty and staff attended the CSUCI Alumni & Friends Association's A Time to Celebrate event this past Saturday in the Petit Salon.

"This was an opportunity for our small, but strong alumni base to help the University celebrate the 5-year anniversary and re-engage themselves in the future of our campus," explained Tania Garcia, Associate Director of Alumni Relations.

Alumni included many of the past student body presidents as well as a variety of alumni from the CSUN-CI classes of 2002 to the most recent CSUCI spring 2007 graduates. University President Richard R. Rush, Vice President for Student Affairs Greg Sawyer, Alumni & Friends Association President Mike Silacci (AT&T), and alumna and City of Ventura Mayor Christy Weir were among the guest speakers for the evening. The Alumni & Friends Association would like to extend a special thank you to all those in the campus community who supported and participated this event.
